Genetic Technologies and Animals

Leonardo's Choice: Genetic Technologies and Animals is an edited collection of twelve essays and one dialogue focusing on the profound affect the use of animals in biotechnology is having on both humans and other species. Communicating crucial understandings of the integrated nature of the human and non-human world, these essays, unlike the majority of discussions of biotechnology, take seriously the impact of these technologies on animals themselves. This collection's central questions revolve around the disassociation Western ideas of creative freedom have from the impacts those ideas and practices have on the non-human world. This transdisciplinary collection includes perspectives from the disciplines of philosophy, cultural theory, art and literary theory, history and theory of science, environmental studies, law, landscape architecture, history, and geography. Included authors span three continents and four countries. Included essays contribute significantly to a growing scholarship surrounding "the question of the animal" emanating from philosophical, cultural and activist discourses. Its authors are at the forefront of the growing number of theorists and practitioners across the disciplines concerned with the impact of new... more on http://springer.com/978-90-481-2478-7

► Considers genetic technologies in light of a growing concern about our relationship with the natural world and specifically with animals ► Urgently critiques genetic technologies' impact on control or erasure of animal subjectivity ► Questions the inevitability of a biotechnological future and the rationales behind it ► Elicits the ethical and political viewpoints concerning public involvement ► Includes transdisciplinary perspectives and is intended for transdisciplinary audiences
